ReThink Montgomery Speaker Series

Montgomery County's assets – our location on the edge of Washington, D.C., a mild climate, economic opportunities and scenic beauty – define us. Add the Agricultural Reserve, an enviable parks system, the Metro and the schools, and the sum is a quality place.

Is it sustainable?

The 2010 Montgomery County Planning Department speaker series, Rethink Montgomery, presents ways to connect culture, health, food, knowledge, ecology, economy, infrastructure, resources, and energy. How we link those elements of sustainability will define Montgomery County for the next several decades.

Join us for our community discussions every Thursday, April 8-June 3, 2010.
All presentations at 7:30 p.m. at Park and Planning Headquarters.
